Coffman, Hill promoted

D. J. Collins, Manager of Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands headquartered in Appomattox, announced the following personnel changes in the Woodlands organization.

David Coffman has been promoted from Northern District Forester to the new staff position of Public Affairs Forester effective June 1, 1980.

Dave, a native of Woodstock, Virginia graduated from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in 1974 with a B. S. in Forest Resource Management.

While attending VPI & SU Dave was a Cooperative Education Student with the U. S. Forest Service in Montana and Virginia. Dave also worked as a Summer Intern at Westvaco's West Virginia Woodlands in 1973.

Upon graduation he joined Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands as Northern District Forester and has served in that capacity for the past six years.

In his new duties Dave will be responsible for Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands public affairs programs, forestry association work, information and education programs, administration of the hunting/recreation programs and will keep abreast of legislative matters. He will also be responsible for the organizational and handling of the aerial photography and mapping for the Woodlands. Dave lives in Appomattox with his wife Julie and son, Ryan.

James H. Hill, Jr. will replace Coffman in the position of Northern District Forester at Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands. Jim is a 1977 honor graduate of the University of the South.

Jim was a summer Intern at Virginia Woodlands in 1976 and 1977. He joined Westvaco as an Assistant District Forester in the Southern District at Virginia Woodlands in 1978 and was transferred to the Northern District as an Assistant District Forester in 1979.

As District Forester, Jim has the responsibility for the land management activities on 65,000 acres of company land located throughout 8 counties in the Central Piedmont of Virginia.

He is directly responsible for the cultural activities necessary to establish and maintain at maximum growth levels 2000 acres of loblolly pine plantations annually on the district.

Jim is a native of Athens, Tennessee and currently resides in Appomattox.

ACHS student selected for summer program for seniors

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University has created an innovative five-week summer program for exceptional secondary school students who, upon completion of the junior year, can enroll in and receive academic credit for special freshman level courses. Enrollment in this exclusive pilot program is limited to exceptional young men or women who rank in the top 10 percent of the junior class.

G. Duane Blanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Blanks of Spout Spring, has been invited to participate in this stimulating academic opportunity in a compreshensive university environment. This unique experience is designed to acquaint students with college life in a challenging manner that will serve to enrich and give added direction to their senior year in high school.

At VPI Duane will be enrolled in English Literature and College Math, both of which will be taught by distinguished faculty members and will earn for Duane academic credits which may apply toward baccalaureate degree requirements. In addition, since students may audit one course, Duane will be studying a course in Agriculture.

G. DUANE BLANKS

ELIZABETH MICHELLE CARWILE of Pamplin took sixth place in competition and first place in party gown among 30 contestants in the Tiny Miss Lynchburg pageant held Sunday at the Holiday Inn South in Lynchburg. She is five years old and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Carwile. She was sponsored by Tolley's Liquid Fertilizer and Fuel of Pamplin.

Other special features of the summer honors program include weekly seminars on aspects of "college life," special career development advising programs and access to a wide array of athletic facilities and cultural events. This opportunity to meet other talented young men and women and to receive individual attention in small classes will prove invaluable for Duane.

Tips for canning

inch and a quarter at the top of pint jars and an inch and a half in quart jars. Do not shake or press peas down. Add ½ teaspoon salt to pint jars and one teaspoon to quart. Cover with boiling water, leaving ½ inch head space. Remove air bubbles by running spatula or knife between jar and food. Again, place jar lids on properly. For canning, you use the same amount of pressure and the same times as you would for raw pack peas.

If you have a food preservation problem, you may call 352-8244 or write us a P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, Va. It is always a pleasure to hear from and to help you. Have a good week, homemakers.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Sweet and sour cabbage

½ small head cabbage, cut in ¼" to ½" wedges
1 clove garlic, crushed and diced
2 small or one large green pepper, cut into ¼" squares
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon MSG
Oil for cooking
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon soy
2 tablespoons rice vinegar
2 teaspoons cornstarch in 2 tablespoons water (optional).

Heat oil in wok, add salt, garlic. Stir fry until brown. Add cabbage, MSG, and stir fry 2 minutes. Add green pepper, stir fry one minute. Add sugar, soy, vinegar and stir another 2 minutes. Add cornstarch mix, stir until clear and thickened.

Spec. Ed. parents meet

Parents with children in special education met recently with Mrs. Jean Hesson, local director for films on public law 94-142 (dealing with special education in public schools) and the individualized education program.

After the meeting, three parents who had attended an in-service training session sponsored by the State Department of Education approached the parents about forming an organization for parents with children in special education programs.

This group will not be connected with the school board, but will be made up entirely of parents concerned with their children's education.

Making PL 94-142 work requires a team effort and parents are the key members of the team, according to one spokesperson at the meeting. She added, parents should know what services are available and where to get them.

There are about 270 students in special education locally, so it should be a large and active group of parents.

"If parents will meet and share their experiences with each other, we can help each other," she said. "And in turn, we can help our children by being more understanding and better informed."

The group will meet four times a year, and the next scheduled meeting will be in the fall.

For additional information, parents may contact either Pat Davis, Sarah Summers, Amy Nash or Ann Reynolds.
